TRAMP

Attempts Murder Near Santa Fe Springs,

Shooting an Old Lady Who Was Be friending Him.

Meted Out by a Short Shriftalready resulted in one death, and may bring about another, took place on Har-graves's ranch, near Fulton Wells, yester-

A tramp walked up to the door and was met by Mrs. Sackett, who asked him what he wanted. He seemed to be angry, and answered in an insolent manner, when the woman became frightened, and was about to return into the house, when she noticed that the tramp had drawn by itsel, and was that the tramp had drawn a pistol and was preparing to take a shot at her. She rushed toward him, and grabbed the muzzle of the pistol in her right hand. Just at this instant the pistol explosed, and two of the poor woman's fingers were shot of the poor ways.

soon as possible.

She was found to be in a very dangerous condition, but the doctor thought it might be possible for her to recover.

On Friday night the same tramp was seen near Downey, and it is believed that he was about half crazy, as he acted in a singular manner.

about hair crazy, as he acted in a singular manner.

The people were greatly worked up over the shooting of Mrs. Sackett, who is highly thought of, and had not Mr. Slocum put an end to the tramp's miserable life, it is more than possible that he would have been lynchair.

Slocum. is still out at his ranch, but Deputy Sheriff Russell went out last night, and will bring him in to the city after an inquest is held by Coronor Meredith, who will go out this morning.

and will bring him in to the city after an inquest is held by Coronor Meredith, who will go out this morning.

A LATER ACCOUNT.

A telephone message from the scene of the tragedy gives the following account:

About the middle of the afternoon a tramp made his appearance at the residence of Mrs. C. Sackett, a lady 60 years of age, who lives with her two sons on the Hargrave place, near the Santa Fé Springs. He asked her if her husband could give him work, to which she replied in a kindly tone that they had no work. He then asked for a drink of water, and stepped into the house. Mrs. Sackett stooped over to give him the water, when she heard the click of a pistol. She looked up and saw a weapon in his hand and made a grab for it. It was pointed at her face, and when she warded to fit it exploded and the bullet wounded her hand, and her face was badly powderburned. She then started to run out of the house and the tramp fired a second shot. The bullet took effect in the back of the neck and lodged under the skin against the jugular vein and near the ear. Mrs. Sacket ran from the house and cried for help. She attracted the attention of one of her neighbors named W. P. Slocum, who went to the house to see what had become of the tramp, and Mrs. Sackett went on to the house of G. M. Harlow, her son-in-law. When Mr. Slocum reached the house the tramp fired at him from the front door. Mr. Slocum reached the house, as he was not armed. Looking into the back door, he saw a shotgun, which he grabbed up and started through the house. The tramp ran out and attempted to conceal himself in a corn field. Mr. Slocum followed him, when the tramp fired another shot, and Mr. Slocum shot him in the head, killing him instantly. The tramp had nimself in a corn left. Art. Stocum followed him, when the tramp fired another shot, and Mr. Siocum shot him in the head, killing him instantly. The tramp had never been seen about the Sackett place before, and it is believed that he was crazy, as he had no cause for being angry with Mrs. Sackett. The fellow seemed to be an Englishman. He was about 45 years of age, and was rather well dressed. His remains were left in the cornfield with the pistol by his side to await the Coroner, who was notified at once.

Mrs. Sackett, who, after the shooting, remained at her son-in-law's place, was ablejto go back last evening and identify the body of her assailant. Her wounds may prove serious, owing to her age and the nervous shock which she has sustained, but in a younger person they would not be considered dangerous.

THE MURDER TRIAL Adjourned Over Until Next Tuesday

Morning.
The murder trial of the Wolffs and Peterson was to have been continued at 10 a.m. yesterday. At that time the Judge, jury, District Attorney and witnesses were present, but the counsel for the defense, C. C. Stephens, was absent in the Supreme Court waiting for his disbarment case to come up. Judge Gardiner waited patiently for an hour, and then took a recess till 1 p.m. At that hour the court reassembled, and again waited patiently for a while, but as Mr. Stephens did not show up the case was adjourned till Tuesday at 10 a.m. to give him a chance to get through. After the court had adjourned the counselor came in, all ready for the trial, but the room was empty.

It would have been better if the court had adjourned the case over from Friday evening and allowed the witnesses a chance to go home, instead of hanging around all day. It would probably have done so if notified by Mr. Stephens.

Fire Commissioners The Fire Commissioners held a regular meeting yesterday afternoon.
On motion of Mr. Teed the Chief Engi-

On motion of Mr. Teed the Chief Engineer was instructed to natify the owners of the recently burned property on Commercial street, at the head of Wilmington street, not to rebuild of wood, it being a violation of the fire ordinance,

A complaint was received from the property owners on First street, between St. Louis and Cummings streets, that a livery stable is being erected on South street in violation of ordinance No. 377. The Chief Engineer was ordered to stop the work at once.

On motion of Mr. Teed the Chief Euglneer was instructed to notify Charles Crociat to desist from operating his machinery at Nos. 24 and 25 South Truman street, as it is in violation of a city ordinance.

The Disbarment Case.

The Defense Injects a Demurrer That Puts It Off

A large crowd hung around the Supreme Court room yesterday in the expectation of seeing a good legal light in the case of C. C. Stephens, attorney, whom Horace Bell lias petitioned the court to disbar from practice for unprofessional conduct. The substance of Bell's complaint was published in The Tixes last Wednesday.

It is that, for the purpose of getting a libel suit against his brother discontinued, Stephens offered to help Bell convict G. Wiley Wells of the same offense; and subsequently, when Bell had commenced proceedings against Wells on Stephens's in formation, the latter appeared as counse for the defendant, and got the suit dismissed. Bell claims this conduct to be wrong and unprofessional.

The Supreme Court sits in a little 10x13 room in the upper story of the building on the northeast corner of Main and Requent streets. The judges sit along the side of the room on an elevated platform in a row. In front of them is a table, with room for half a dozen iswyers to sit by, and against the opposite side of the room are two rows.

The prosecution was not ready to answer the demurrer at so snort a notice, so the Court gave them 10 days to file a brief and the defendant 10 days to reply to it. The demurrer will then be decided, after which the case may come up again some day on its merits.

Arrest of Mrs. Williams for Abusing Her Children.

Humano Officer Wright yesterday investigated the case of Mrs. Williams, who was reported a few days ago as abusing her twe children in a shameful manner. Mrs. Williams lives with her husband, who is a car-penter, in a tent on Providence street, be-tween College and Exchange. The neighiams lives with her husband, who is a carpenter, in a tent on Providence street, between College and Exchange. The neighbors give the couple a bad reputation for drunkenness, and Mrs. Williams is said to be very foul-mouthed when in her caps.
Her younger child, only two years old, has been seen repeatedly in a drunken condition, from beer which the mother gave it to drink at meals, the same as the average mother gives her baby a cup of milk. When Officer Wright appeared at the place and made his business known Mrs. Williams was not disposed to let him examine her boy, who was subjected to the inhuman beating, but when she was threateaed with arrest she showed the boy's back.
It was covered with great black and blue patches half as large as a man's hand.
The woman said she administered the beating last Wednesday, and she whipped the child (oul 4 or 5 years old) for calling her flithy names and refusing to obey her.
Officer Wright left the children in the care of meighors and placed the woman under arrest. Her case is to be heard by Justice King.

THEIR CRUSHING EFFECT ON SEVERAL GILDED YOUTH.

s of a Couple of High-toned Millonaires of San Francisco Who Have Danced Attendance-Trips to the Flag Cottage.

Should Evangeline remain in this city another week it is more than probable that more than one duel would be fought, and there is no telling how many bloody noses might have to be patched up.

Pretty faces and shapely legs have played sad havoc with the giddy youth of this city, and those who have no rich papas to foot the bills will be compelled to sail mighty close to the wind for some time to come. They have forgotten all about their little ay girls, and these selfsame confiding ures will have to go through the holiwithout receiving a single present the young men to whom they pinned their faith and affec-The chorus girls have had gh old time in Los Angeles during their week's stay, and they may re-member the silly dudes who have squan-dered their wealth on them fully 24 hours after they leave the city. But then the girls can't help it. It's a little habit they have, for instinct or experience tells them their tights, spangles and the manager's red will bring them lovers wherever they "They like it," as Fay Templeton says, and even if they do cause many a heartache by separating young lovers and all that kind of thing, they never hear of it, and probably wouldn't care the snap of their dainty fingers if they did. But there are some tights and spangled litations that do not end as innocently as he above-mentioned. It happens very fiten that several gilded youth fall in love fith the same girl, and then there is blood in the moon in several languages. During he past week the opera-house moon has resented a reddish appearance after every erformance, and had it not been for the otoriety the love-sick yeuths feared, the oroner might have had more than one case a his hands.

Coroner might have nad more man one case on his hands.

The principals, who have for their stage of action the front door, the "baid-headed" scats and at fly restaurants in the early morning, do not belong to the Los Angeles species. There are two of them and they came from San Francisca. One of them is the son of a United States ex-Senator and the father of the other is a prominent physician who founded a medical college.

The fathers of these young men are very weathy, one of them being worth over $30,000,000. They came down on the same train with the Rice's, and have not missed a single performance since the troupe arrived in the city.

single performance since the troupe arrived in the city.

Both of them are after the same girl, who is one of the stars, and the young bloods were on the verge of coming together in a nostile way two or three times; in fact, they have met in the bar-rocom at the operahouse repeatedly and very loud lauguage was used, but they did not come to blows.

Thursday night the doctor's son and the star were driven away from the operahouse in a hack. They visited a high-toned restaurant, where they indulged in a wine supper. From there they were driven to that sweet-scented den, the Flag Cottage, where they remained until daylight. When they reached the hotel where the woman was stopping there were quite a number of people on the streets, and they witnessed a scene that would have made a buildge laugh. The woman skipped into the hotel as soon as she could get out of the hack, when the driver demanded his fare.

hack, when the driver demanded his fare. He fixed the bill at $15, and didn't seem to care who knew it.

"That's an outrage and I won't pay it. You are only entitled to $8, and I will not give you another cent."

"Oh, well, it's all right. I don't care whether you pay it or not. I will go right up to Miss F—'s room. She is a friend of mine, and I know she will pay it."

This brought the dade to terms, and he pungled over the money, aithough it barely left him enough for his break fast.

The next night the young sucker was on hand at the theater with a far-off, sickly east in his left eye, but he braced up when he saw his rival in the distance, and for two hours they scowled at each other.

The Senator's son had gotten away with the works, however, for he had made an engagement with the young woman, and another Flag-cottage performance was gone through with.

The same actress was here some years ago, and played an engagement in the Grand Opera-house, and during her stay made a fool of "Dick, the dude," and bled him to the tune of several thousand dollars.

During the engagement of the Rice company a number of well-known married men have been noticed flying about the operanouse. To all appearances they were on their good behavior, but could their loving wives have looked in on them in an uptown restaurant a couple of hours after the performance, there would be several dozen divorce suits before the courts on short notice.

Almost every chorus girl has had from one to five men on a string during the past week, and a majority of these men are married, but the girls don't care for that. They wanted their room rent and hotel bills paid, and married mashers never refuse a little thing of that kind.

Taken as a whole, the female portion of the company is but little better than a traveling assignation-house, and the further apart their visits to Los Angeles are the better it will be for quite a number of citizens who cannot resist temptation.

Judge Adams was then introduced, and completely demolished the Democratic claim of being the friend of white labor and the enemy of the Chinese immigration from 1850 to date, and submitted an array of facts, names and dates which leaves, no possible loophole for the Pemocracy to escape through. He cited the acts of Gov. Haight and Mayor McCoppin, both Democrats, at the Burlingame ratification, and reception. UNDER THE WHEELS.

A Little Boy Crushed to Death by a Street Car. About 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon a fatal accident occurred at the corner of Aliso and Vignes streets, which should be a warning to all children not to run after wagons or carriages on the streets. At that hour, Frank E. Wise, aged 8 years, a son of Frank Wise of No. 116 Lazard street, with several other boys, was engaged in "stealing ruces on Aliso street, and through thoughtlessness or by some unknown means, he fell, or was knocked under the wheels of a horse car, and received injuries from which he gaged in "stealing rides" on an ice wagon knocked under the wheels of a horse car, and received injuries from which he shortly afterward died. When picked up it was discovered that he had been injured internally, and that his limbs had been crushed by the carwheels. Blood was seen that he could not live but a few minutes. Some think that he was struck by the horses and knocked under the carwheels. The boy's own mother is dead, and he was living with his step-mother, his father having married again. The testimony given at the Coroner's inquest entirely exonerates the driver of the car, Fred Tillie, who was arrested and booked for manslaughter by the police, and Coroner Meredith discharged him as soon as the verdict in the inquest was rendered last night. The following is a brief synopsis of the evidence:

Meredith discharged him as soon as the verdict in the inquest was rendered last night. The following is a brief synopsis of the evidence:

John R. Harden, a carpenter by occupation, testified that about 1 or 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon he was coming across the Aliso-street bridge. At the corner of Vignes and Aliso streets he noticed a wagon loaded with ice going toward the bridge on Aliso street. Three or four little boys jumped on the rear step of the wagon, and appeared to be holding on and picking up small pieces of the ice to eat. The deceased was standing on the left-hand corner of the wagon. The truck or wagon turned directly afterward as if to cross the street, and then turned around as if to come back. The boys were still on the rear of the wagon as the truck crossed the track of the street-car company. It proceeded the same way the car was going, and stopped within three or four feet of the car track. The little boys all jumped from the wagon when it stopped, and, the deceased being on the side near the car track, he disappeared from the witness's sight. The witness heard a scream and ran over to the car. The car was stopped immediately, and the witness saw the Wise boy lying between the wheels of the car. One of the wheels of the car had passed over him. He was taken from under the car in a dying condition and died shortly afterward. Willie Fitzpatrick, a 13-year-old boy, testified that he was at the corner of Vignes and Aliso streets yesterday afternoon. Frank E. Wise and a couple of other little boys came to the corner, and stood there for a few minutes. They had been running behind an ice wagon that was coming up Vigness street. Witness heard the Wise boy say he was stealing a ride from the ice man. When the see wagon turned around the Wise boy and his companions got on it. The wagon then crossed the street-car rack and stopped, and the Wise boy imped off. The witness thought the wise boy and his companions got on it. The wagon then crossed the street-car rack and stopped, and the Wise boy imped and informed those in charge of the accident.

The following witnesses were also examined and corroborated the testimony of Harden and the Fitzpatrick boy: R. Grand, L. Guirado, James L. Galloway, John Callaghan, E. H. Rury and M. T. Collins.

The verdict of the jury was that Frank E. Wise came to his death from injuries received by being accidently run over by a car of the Los Angeles Cable Railway Company, and that no blame is attached to the said company or its employés.

IN SOCIETY.

Record of a Quiet Week-Music and Wedding Bells.
The second Ellis Club concert is the long-desired event of the week. It will take place in Turnverein Hall on Thursday night, and, as before, the doors will close on all late-comers at 8 o'clock precisely, and those incorrigibles who deem it recherché to be late, or those unfortunates who have alike will remain outside until the end of the first number. It is safe to predict a real and beautiful surprise for those of the associate members and their friends who associate members and their friends who have not attended, as so many do with interest, the rehearsals. Not only is the propramme an immense advance upon the first, but it will be rendered with a marvelous increase of dramatic skill, fervor and security, and those who go to criticise will probably remain to pray or praise. The programme has already been published in these columns, and is interesting throughout. Mrs. Kennan, the soloist, has been quite ill at Pasadena, but is now happily recovered.

The Coyotes have secured rooms, blg convenient, central and cosy, at 265% North Main street, and here it is that they will coyly congregate, gathering silently by their secret stair, to feasts of Bohemian viands, enlivened by wit that Shakespeare never knew, by philosophy that Horatio never dreamed of and tales that Scherzade would blush to own. A meeting, still preliminary to a real "bark," was held last night, the president, Charles S. Walton, in

"Home again with happy hearts,
Home where love no more departs;
Childish voices, baby feet,

M. REYNOLDS DREW THEM ON NO BANK ACCOUNT,

And He Was Promptly Apprehended and Run In by Detective Bob McGregor of the Herald Force— Several Victims Unreported.

Mr. Vignes, own the Heraid rontes, and are out among the people a great deal, and have a great many friends. Yesterday Bob was out in the country all day, and when he re-turned, late in the afternoon, he went into the office, and in looking over the cash he found a check which he noticed had been rejected at the First National Bank. On inquiring into the matter he was told that inquiring into the matter he was told that one F. M. Reynolds, who used to keep books for A. L. Teele, the real-estate man, nad presented it to Mr. Vignes and collected $35. It was drawn and signed by Reynolds, and when he got the money yesterday morning he asked Vignes not to present it at the bank until 2 o'clock p.m. Vignes thought nothing more of the matter until a quarter of 3, when he visited the bank and was thunderstruck to learn that Reynolds had no account with that bank.

Bob saw at a glance that something was wrong, so he made inquiries about Reynolds, and learned that he had drawn several checks of the same kind during the day, so he made up his mind to have him arrested.

day, so he made up his mind to have him arrested.

A warrant was cissued and an officer started out to look the Jonny dude up. Bob did not drop the matter here, however. He wanted the man arrested at once, so he started out on his own hook, and after going to all the depois, to satisfy himself that Reynolds had not left town, he returned to the business portion of the city, and the first man he ran into on North Main street was Reynolds.

"I place you under arrest," said Bob, stepping boldly up to the dude. Reynolds objected on the grounds that Bob is not an officer.

objected on the grounds that Bob is not an officer.

"That's all right, but I'll take you to jail just the same, and if you don't come along without any monkey business, I'll club you all the way up the street," and Bob drew a policeman's club which looked as big as an ox to the trembling dude. "I'll teach you to swindle hard-working boys," and Bob marched him to the police station, where he was locked up.

Raiph Rogers was another one of Reynold's victims yesterday. The fakir passed a check on Mr. Rogers for $55, and Bob is of the opinion that a number of checks have been disposed of in the same way by Reynolds. Seven wonths ago Reyno'ds married into a well-to-do San Francisco family, and his wife is now with him in this city. He is a stylish chap, but so far as cau be learned he has no bad habits except writing bogus checks.

The Church of the Unity.
Though the services of the Unitarian Church of this city have been temporarily suspended, for reasons beyond the control of those most deeply interested, yet plans of those most deeply interested, yet plans have been steadily maturing for the permanent establishment here of a liberal church, in which shall be united the very large congregation that for a long time met at the Grand Opera-house under the ministry of Dr. Fay, and last week ground was broken on Seventh street, between Fort and Hill streets, preparatory to the erection of a church which will be one of the largest and most complete in the city. The work will be pushed as rapidly as possible, and't is expected that the corner-stone will be laid within a month. Several leading business men are connected with this congregation, and it is their purpose that at the earliest day practicable this church shall be completed.

Good Templars Entertainment.

The musical social given by Merrill Lodge, 1.O.G.T., at Pythian Castle last night for the benefit of the Good Templars' Home for Orphans was in every way a success. The hall was full, the musical and literary programme was a every way a success. The hall was full, the musical and literary programme was well rendered, and then the rules were suspended and the balance of the evening was devoted to sociability, ice cream and cake. Among the guests were Hon. Niles Scarls, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, a Good Templar of years' standing, who was prevailed upon to make a few remarks in the Interest of the home, to the support of which he has long been a regular and liberal contributor.

ORIENTAL ART.

A General Glance at the Art of Ja-pan—The Old Schools. Some little time since I gave to THE TIMES several papers on Japanese art. I found the subject to be an inexhaust-ible one, and that the history of art in that country goes far backward into the dim and misty periods of bygone centuries. The Japanese are peculiarly an artistic people—loving art for art's sake, and making of pictorial art of times an historical interpreter. In decorative applications Japanese art is still unrivaled. We wonder at the marvelous skill displayed; at the rare harmony of color, the nicety of shade, the beauty of design and finish, and the exquisite tout ensemble, and feel that we would like to know more of its his tory-to go back to the beginning when art was born in that isolated em tory—to go back to the beginning, when art was born in that isolated empire of the Orient in the dim old past. But since the doors of that empire have been unbaired to the world, new schools of art have risen upon the ashes of the old, and much that is quaint and novel in the Japanese art with which we are familiar is fast giving place to new methods and teachings in the direction of pictorial art. But still originality must ever be a feature of the Japanese artist. European art may become, in a measure, naturalized in Japan, but it will always bear the distinctive marks of native genius—be merely a graft upon the great system so long established. Japanese methods of interpretation will not be borrowed.

Says a recent writer upon this subject: "Japanese pictorial art in its main principles of style and technique must be regarded as a scion of the more ancient art of China, in which the characters of the parent stock have been varied by native grafts. In its motives it claims a share of originality at least equal to any art extant; in the range and excellence of its decorative applications it takes perhaps the first place in the world, but in the qualities of scientific completeness it falls much below the standard of modern Europe.

"To differentiate the principles of its leading schools, it may be said that of the older the Buddhist is the most ancient, the most strictly traditional, the most ornate, but in certain examples the noblest and most impressive. The Chinese school, with the Shesshift and Kano branches, displays the greatest caligraphic power but the least invention; and the Yamato-Tosa is the most national in style and motive, but the least forcible. Of the later schools, the Korin is the most purely and boldly decorative, the Shije the most natural and graceful and the Livicove the national in style and motive, but the least forcible. Of the later schools, the Korin is the most purely and boldly decorative, the Shije the most natural and graceful, and the Ukiyo-ye the most original and versatile, but the least cultivated. The four latter, with the Toba-ye caricatures, represent the native, the first four the 'classical phases of the art.'

"Japanese art has therefore been little influenced by European art, for European art is as yet but feebly understood by the schools of this Empire. But the Japanese artist, it is conceded, is richer in endowments than the majority of painters belonging to more advanced people, and possesses a large share of that quality in artwhich, for want of a better name, may be called 'power;' a perfect appreciation of harmony in color; an instinctive sense of effectiveness and propriety in composition; unequaled command of a pencil; a ready and fertile invention; and when he is disposed to exercise it, a keen and intelligent cift of observation."

With those gifts in the favor, when he has shaken off the conventionalities which encumber him, and learned to exercise his full powers.

which encumber him, and learned to exercise his full powers, in the higher fields of art he will triumph, and in pictorial art stand as far beyond ri-valry as he now does in the branches of decorative art.

Says an authority upon this subject:
"While we earnestly appreciate all that the Japanese painter has already effected we reserve our highest admiration for the evidence that his work affords of an unmeasured force yet to be brought into action."

A STRAIGHT BLUFF.

Kearney Couldn't Prove His State-ment for $1000.

John F. Hogan, the Irish-American war-horse, ran a great bluff yesterday on Der-nis Kearney, the sand lout. In his speech Friday night Kearney offered to give any man $1000 who would disprove any of his statements. Hogan sent word to him yesterday that there was a certified check for $1000 ready for him if he (Kearney) would prove one of his statements. Hogan went to the bank and got his certified check, but Kearney, failed to expect, and claim it to the bank and got his certified check, but Kearney failed to appear and claim it. Peter Huff, the little boy whose sister Clara created something of a senation by her bold thefts from the Young Ladies' Home last week, is still at the police station. The last week, is still at the police station. The little fellow, who ran away from home, refuses to go back for fear of the beating he would receive, and his parents do not seem to manifest much interest in getting him back. The boy has been sleeping in an outside room at the city jail, and has subsisted on the prison fare. A proposition has been made to commit him to the Boys' and Giris' Home in San Francisco, and, as the father concurs, he will doubtless be sent up this week.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

Establish Home Manufactures. ANGELES, Oct. 13 .- [To the Editor of THE TIMES.] It was my good fortune to attend the meeting held at the Board of Trade rooms on Thursday last, for the purpose of dis-cussing the question of encouraging the establishment of factories in this city and county. I learn that a second meeting, with the same object, is to be held at the same place next Mon-held at the same place next Monday.

Let petroleum be developed here in plentiful quantities (as beyond question it can be), and factories will spring up on every hand. A successful gas well established here would turn a tide of manufacturers to Los Angeles that would soon put in motion industries that would make a new place of this city and vicinity.

There are millions of dollars lying idle in the East which could be easily brought to this coast for investment if it could be shown by practical test that we have within easy reach the one thing lacking in the establishment of all kinds of factories—cheap fuel. So far as we can judge, and from all experiments, it would seem that both oil and natural gas can be successfully developed. Is it not worth trying in the most thorough and scientific manner? A question of such vital importance to the city and to all this coast should have the attention and hearty support of every resident of this part of the country. If this question can be solved there is no estimating what the results will be. Establish woolen mills and you make a home market for the wool that is grown here; establish canneries and glass factories solved there is no estimating what the results will be. Establish woolen mills and you make a home market for the wool that is grown here; establish canneries and glass factories and utilize the vast amount of fruitwhich is now grown and much of it wasted or sold at small profit, and California could supply the world with the finest kinds of fruits in glass as well as tin. In our best groceries we see fruits and vegetables put up in glass and labeled "New York" or "Baltimore," when, with our own glass factories and with our delicious fruits, we could send rlass goods in tine all over the world, labeled "Los Angeles" instead of bringing them from the East as we do. Any factory which would utilize the products of the Pacific Coast and save bringing the same at great expense across the continent would be of a two-fold benefit to our State. Such industries will quickly follow the development of oil and natural gas. There are hundreds of manufacturers looking with anxious eyes to this side of the continent for the day to come when they can move their interests here with an assurance of success. This vital and all-important matter once settled and the future of Los Angeles county and city is determined. If the test is favorable it will be an easy matter to induce capital and emigrants to come here. It would not cost a large amount of money to secure the services of an expert in the line of boring for oil and gas from some of the oil regions East, and to give this matter a thorough and careful test. Would it not be the right thing to do at the present time? right thing to do at the present time? GEORGE M. SMITH.

The Old Man Votes as He Prays.

| REPORTED BY J. C. SHERER. |
| Why don't I vote as I pray?
| Well. I reckon, young man, that I do,
| An' you're sorter pr. sumptious to say An' you're sorter presumptious to say
That I orter be votn' with you!
Has it never occurred to you, really.
That your's is not just the right view?

Have you ever sat down an' tried thinkin'? Suppose now you do for a change: There's a lot other evils 'sides de'ninkin' When glanced at at sensible range, An' how your queer vot n' 'll cure that Is somethin' confoundedly strange.

I'll not say th' Almighty's intention Was out out to fit with my view; I've not got sufficient invention To gauge that, as you fellers do, But I don't think he ever intended To reform men by forcing 'em to!

Young man, if you vote in November, As it seems you're intendin' to do, I suggest that you sorier remember Some things shat the country's gone thro', An' see if you can't learn a lesson By recallin' 'em up, just a few.

Let us look at the tariff a minute,
An' what does your history say:
Look close an' you'll see written in it
That tinkerin' w th it don' pay:
That protection means progress and plenty.
An' free trade looks just t'other way.

An'tt tells you, perhaps, if it's truthful,
That some twenty odd years ago,
When we old men were robust an'youthful
An'you'd scarcely begun to grow,
Of a race that was freed from the shackles Forged in the hell-fire's glow!

Yes, we free i the slave, an' we gave 'em A promise that they should be free To resist all attement to enslave' em By votin' just like you an' me, An' have their votes confied as ours are On whatever side they might be, But are they? Not much, an' I wonder How long will the people submit

To this farce an' this outrage. By thunder It makes my blood blie seein' it, An' you fe lers firin' your rockets An' mouths off at things you can't hit!

Yes, I'm votin', young man, as I'm prayin', An' I take no side issue in mine, An' I reckon it goes without +ayin' That it's surely my present design To vote the Republican ticket. An' upon it ask bloss n' divine?

An' upon it ask biess.n' divine?

A Warning.

The modes of death's approach are various and statistics show conclusively that more urersons die from diseases of the throat and ungs than any other. It is probable that every one, without exception, receives vast numbers of tubercle germs into the system, and where these germs fail upon suitable scil they start into life and develop, at first slowly, and is shown by a slight tickling sensation in the throat, and, it, allowed to continue their ravages, they extend to the lungs, producing consumption, and to the head, causing catarrh. Now, all this i dangerous, and may also you your life. As soon as you feel in time cause death. At the onset you must act with promptness; allowing a cold to go without attention is dangerous, and may less you your life. As soon as you feel that something is wrong with your daroat, lungs or nostrils, obtain a bottle of Boschee's German Syrup. It will give your wediate relief.

In this form there is more or less ulceration of the yound chords, beginning on the lower side and gradually extending upward. These ulcers often penetrate through the muscular tissue and not unfrequently attack the ligaments and cartilages themselves. When the laryngeal disease is secondary to that of the tungs, and dependent u on it, we can only hope to effect a cure by those means which will remove fis cause, and these we have considered, and shall more fully, consider under the bead of "Consumption." Only on the larynx is liable to abscesse to warry growths and to polipi. Under the action of long continued irritation the vocal cords become thickened, rendering the voice husky and indistinct. And again, we may have complete less of voice from palsy of the cords constituting an affection known to the physicans by the torm of "Aphonia." The defective breathing of children thus affected often occasions contraction of the chest, and lays the foundation for consumption. The custachian tubes (the mouths of which are just above the palate) are often indiamed, and partial deafness is the result. Many pati-nis suffering from a throat disease are dyspeptic, and suffer with depression of spirits. So often des this symptom present itself that it may almost be rewarded as one of the peculiar ties. For the Development of Our Resource

The public meeting called for Monday at 3 o'clock, at the Board of Trade rooms, is of vast importance to every one who has the prosperity of the city at heart. The time has come-and there is no mistaking it—when our people must meet together and discuss ways and means looking to the estabshment of manufactures and for inducing producers to come among us. This question is squarely before us to-We can no longer expect to make large profits out of land deals with the excursionists who come among us during the winter months, and subsist on those profits during the summer, but we must show these same excursionists, what is the fact, that the country possesses substantial resources and solid advantages; that there are openings for canning factories, cheese factories, shoe factories and watch factories; that we want any kind of factory that will give our 'breadwinners" employment and enable them to make a good, honest living. We have a climate in which any kind of work can be carried on the whole year round. No freezing up of water-pipes and closing down on account of the mercury being away below zero. There are many kinds of wares that can be manufactured here that will pay handsome returns. Take, for instance, the kind of works just suggested. None of them would need any great outlay for fuel. The fuel question is the hardest one for us to surmount; and in extending our invitation to manufacturers to come here, we must be careful to make no mistakes. We must come to the front every time with an honest and correct statement, and endeavor to put every one who will come here on a sure basis of success, so far as representations made them are concerned. Let every one who has the interest of our community at heart be present at this meeting. Not only go, but go with some good idea to advance, and be ready when the time comes to give your best assistance, in money, nuscle or brains. We can and will build a great and prosperous city here. We will yet give the lie to all the false reports being put in circulation against us by our enemies, both at home and abroad.

A Healthy Sign.

The recent triumphant renomination of Mayor Hewitt in New York is one of the greatest political surprises of the year. A few months ago it would This is an important He had quarrreled with his Council, and had offended a large and active element of the city's voting population by refusing in a peremptory manner to hoist any foreign flags on the City Hall. At the renomination this famous flag order, which Tammany had hailed as surely foreshadowing Hewitt's utter overthrow, was glorified in speeches and applauded by tumultuous cheers.

Mr. Hewitt's triumph is as complete as it was unexpected. Its secret is that, in spite of all his lack of tact, ba manners and total disregard for the feelings of men from whom he may have differed, Mr. Hewitt has been a absolutely honest and fearless official. whose entire devotion to what he considered to be the best interests of the citizens, it has been impossible to doubt. His integrity and earnestness have won for him a popular indorsement such as a more politic man could probably never gain.

This renomination of Mayor Hewitt with so much enthusiasm shows that after all New York's municipal politics are not in such desperately bad condition. While his views on some subjects-such as high license-are not such as Republicans can indorse, his renomination is an encouraging sign to friends of honest municipal government throughout the country. Republicans and Democrats on the Tariff

The majority report on the Senat Tariff Bill, drafted by Mr. Aldrich, is considered by leading Republicans a model document. Senator Hoar is so much impressed with the report that ne has sent the following letter to Mr. Aldrich:

SENATE CHAMBER, Oct. 5, 1888. My Dear Mr. Aldrich: I have read your report. It is the abiest, most important and most timely state paper that has been produced in this country since the war. I will not say Alexander Hamilton could not have produced a better, but I will say that if he had written this it would now be eagerly read as among the very best of his contributions to the discussion of great economic questions. I am, faithfully yours, are very much chagrined at the weak ness of the report which has been made by the minority upon the Tariff Bill. They are the more humiliated because these reports show the remarkable lack of harmony which exists among the Democrats upon this subject. The zealous supporters of the Mills Bill have declared that they intend to keep Congress in session to show the lack of unity among the Republicans. The report of the Republicans has been received by the members of the party with hearty and enthusiastic favor. The Democrats, who are only five in number, have, on the contrary, pre-sented three minority reports, and two of these reports differ as widely as the poles upon the principles of the Mills Bill. The striking fact in connection with these reports is the weakness of the Democratic arguments and the lack of harmony in Democratic ranks.

GEORGE F. HOAR.

HERE is a clean-cut statement of Democratic principles from the Memphis (Tenn.) Appeal:

phis (Tenn.) Appeal:

We lay down concisely and, we trust, clearly the Democratic doctrine of free trade, which is as old as the birth of the party. The Democratic party was always known as the party that strictly construed the Constitution, and was therefore opposed to the levy or collection of a tax for any other purpose than the support of the Government, and was equally as rigidly opposed to the appropriation of public moneys for any other purpose, its motto in its first and most notable campaign being "free trade and sailors" rights." The doubtfut States have long been familiar with the fact that the Democratic party is the free trade party, and they know that any attempt to reconciliate it to grotection in any form, shape, character or degree would be an abandomment of principle that would, and of right ought to, cover it with obloquy and disgrace.

Dr. J. L. Forwood of Chester. Pa. an old Democrat, and a delegate to the conventions that nominated Tilden and Hancock, and who could have gone as a delegate to St. Louis, but refused to be a candidate, joined the Republican ranks early in the campaign, giving strong reasons for his course. He says: "There is no room [in the Democratic party] for any man of in-dependent thought or action. He must submit or be crushed under the iron heel of this dictator. I am a free American citizen, but not a freetrader; hence I cannot support President Cleveland." Chester, it will be recollected, is where the Roach shipyards are located.

ONE secret of the prevailing disturbance among the New York Democrats. it is said, is the discovery of the fact that the Democratic State Committee sent out from its headquarters 100,000 copies of the New York Sun in which was a speech by Gov. Hill and editorial articles in his favor, in close proximity to which were articles severely condemning the tariff-reform policy of the President. That was certainly rather rough on Cleveland.

LIBERAL and independent Germans can scarcely be proud of an Emperor who seeks by inexcusable means to suppress his late father's diary and tacitly approves the action of journals which cast slurs upon his father's character, while he fourneys to Rome and bends the knee to the head of a foreign church. Bismarck is growing old. As it is, recent disclosures have lessened his power over the German people. After Bismarck-what?

"BILLY" WILLIAMS is arousing the north by his protection speeches. Our special dispatches briefly report his movements and the size and enthusiasm of the meetings he addresses at various places. The Marysville Appeal has come to hand with a length and spirited account of the meeting at that place. The gathering was an immense one, and proves that the Republicans of Yuba are thoroughly aroused and are going for victory.

Two German doctors now threaten to sue Dr. Mackenzie for libel on account of statements made by him in his recent books. The public are by this time well aware that doctors seldom, if ever, agree on the character or treatment of cases to which they are WESTERN farmers have a pretty good show this season. Their cattle are now selling for about $1 the hundredweight more than a year ago; hogs are nearly $2 a hundred higher; wheat from 35 cents to 40 cents a bushel higher. In fact, nearly everything the farmer produces brings a better price this season than it did a year ago. It is a pity that Southern California has not more of these things to dispose of.

On the other hand, the Democrats THE SAUNTERER.

I heard some grumbling about the weather during the recent hot wave which struck us so torridly, notwithstanding that we kept up our reputation for ceol nights. I was greatly amused the other day at the shocked face of a good Methodist brother who is the father of as bright a boy as there is in the country.

who is the father of as oright a boy as there is in the country.

The child had been running to meet his father, and came up to him somewhat overheated and out of breath. As he wiped the perspiration from his forehead he looked very earnestly up into his father's face, saying: "Papa, I think hell's come, it's so hot." But the weather is cool again, and we are reminded of the glorious beauty of October days in the East, which seem flooded with the rich wine of the year, the loveliness of mellow sunshine, and crowned with skies wrapped in a mantle of soft haze, as if Nawrapped in a mantle of soft haze, as if Nature were dreaming, and the mist were upon her eyelids. But here there is none of tile crispiness of an eastern October; none of the selendor of flaming forest banners; none of the spiendor of flaming forest banners; none of the frosty freshness that sends the blood tingling through the yeins at sunrise. Nature is still semi-tropic, and sits nursing her fruits and her flowers. She is getting ready for the blossoming year, for her garments of green grasses and newly-planted grains. She will soon be fragrant with rich harvests, and when snows wrap the East with their frozen mantle the sun will be flinging its kisses to her, and the old year will be filled with the perfect beauty of its eternal youth.

I am surprised as I wander about daily at I am surprised as I wander about daily at the number of new buildings going up all over the city, and at the rapidity with which they are occupied as soon as they are completed. It is nearly impossible to go in any direction beyond the sound of the saw and the hammer. And how pleasant are these sounds of busy life. If they are the results of a "busted boom" there isn't a city in the country but would welcome just such a broken boom as Los Angeles possesses.

The spirit of the stirring campaign has The spirit of the stirring campaign has seized upon the souls of the small boys in the community. Don't they enjoy the parades, the torchlight processions and even the speeches of our political orators? Young America is born a politician. He thinks as much of politics as he does of his marbles. He dreams of being President some time in the future. The empty barrel by the fence is his rostrum. He talks of "our" candidate when he is not more than 10 years eld, and is sure "our" party is going to win. His opinions are hatched out by some political incubator, but they are just as much alive as if hatched by some other process. I saw a couple of these political fledgelings out upon the street the other night. There were just two of them, but they were equal to a big procession. Each one had a torch which he bere triumphantly upon his shoulder. They sent their lurid glare into the night. Up and down then the leader turned, punctuating the silence by his sonorous utterance, MARCH! There was volume enough in the order to lead me to suppose that the world was spelled with capitals. And how they didmarch, fired with a spirit like that of the heroes of Thermopylae. They were sturdy young heroes of the Republic, full of the spirit of the hour.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

Sitting Bull and Other Sioux Chiefs at the Capital.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—[By the Associated Press.] Sixty-one chiefs and subchiefs from the great Sioux reservation in Dakota, composing delegations from the several tribes of the Sioux nation, have arrived in Washington to confer with the President and Secretary of the Interior and President and Secretary of the Interior and to present their objections to the law re-cently passed by Congress for the relinquishment of 11,000,000 acres of their reservation. Prominent among them was Sitting Built, who "made the medicine" for the Custer massacre; Gall, who commanded the Indians in that fight; John Grass, said to be the most intelligent Indian in the whole Sioux nation, and several others of note among their people. They met Secretary Vilas and other officials this afternoon, and the Secretary addressed them as fol lows:

"My friends, you have traveled a long way to visit Washington, and I am glad to see you. The Congress which makes the laws which govern this whole country has made this law (holding in his hand the act for the purchase of the reservation). Conv that the time had come for the Sioux Indians to take sure steps civilization, and that the waste and unuse lands of their reservation ought to be set tled upon and made homes of."

The Secretary then explained in detail the methods which he had adopted to secure a faithful and honest and free expression of their wishes with respect to the law, whether they would accept or reject it. White Ghost, Swift Bird and Swift Bear claimed that they were much fatigued from the long journey and wished a postponement of the council until Monday next, which the Secretary granted.

EVANSVILLE (Ind.), Oct. 13.—|By the EVANSVILLE (Ind.), Oct. 13.—[By the Associated Press.] About 8000 people assembled at Garvan Park this afternoon to hear Hon. James G. Blaine, who spoke on the tariff question, severely criticising the Mills Bill and the arguments offered by Roger Q. Mills in his speech delivered here yesterday. In the course of his remarks Mr. Blaine said:

Mr. Biaine said:

"According to the report of the Secretary of the Treasury, the duties levied and collected at all the custom-houses of the United States during this fiscal year amounted in the aggregate to $212,000,000. It is this sum which the free-traders assail so bitterly, and it is in this sum that they find the outrages and abuses of the protective system. Of these aggregate duties of $212,000,000 the Mills Bill proposes to take off an aggregate of $49,500,000, which is 10 per cent. of the total dutiable importations for the year. On the duties on slik and liquors, amounting to $23,000,000, the Mills Bill ande no reduction whatever, so that the whole of the reducever, so that the whole of the reduction fell on the $189,000,000 that remained.

Of the $189,000,000, $58,000,000 was duties levied on sugar, and from the duties levied on sugar a reduction was made of $11,000,000, leaving the people of the United States to a very $47,000,000 analysis on sugar as the states to a very $47,000,000 analysis on sugar as the states to a very $47,000,000 analysis on sugar as the states to a very $47,000,000 analysis on sugar as the states to a very $47,000,000 analysis on sugar as the states to a very $47,000,000 analysis on sugar as the states to a very $47,000,000 analysis on sugar as the states to a very $47,000,000 analysis on sugar as the states to a very $47,000,000 and the states to a very s States to pay $47,000,000 annually on sugar. Gentlemen, you will please observe that the sum of $131,000,000 of duties affords all the protection we have on manufactures, except that levied on silks, on cotton, on wool and woolens, on iron and steel and all articles into which iron and steel enter as a component part; in fact, all that protects the manufacturers in the United States and protects the labor of those engaged therein. of that department may be unwise or unfaithful.

ent's finances, Mr. Fairchild said: "In ne quarters fear has been expressed lest uble should be caused when the Governnent might suddenly withdraw its deposits. I can imagine no state of affairs un-der which it will be necessary to do this suddenly. The amount thus deposited is about $57,000,000. Look at the last statenent of assets and liabilities and see if the Secretary of the Treasury ever need suddenly call for this money, or call for it in a way to cause embarrassment to general business. The Postoffice Department's account of disbursing officers' balances, the Treasurer's transfer checks, drafts, outstanding interest due and unpaid, matured debts, accrued interest and like habilities amount to about $54,000,000. This sum debts, accrued interest and like liabilities amount to about $54,000,000. This sum always remains nearly constant. Hence, about that amount must always be kept on deposit for daily liabilities, and them, after money has been set apart for all these liabilities and for every other liability of whatever name or nature against which the most forced construction of the law could require cash to be provided, there remains a balance of $96.444,845, and, in addition to that, $24,845.830 of substituting sliver, or in all $121,290,660. Mind you, I do not defend the deposit of large sums of Government money in the banks. It objectionably minglays private with public business. No one can disapprove of this more than I do, but your wrong condition of public revenue makes it a choice of evils. I maintain that the Administration has chosen the lesser evil.—I claum that on the whole this perplexing business has been well and prudently managed."

The Secretary then explained his course in buying bonds, and said: "Up to the 1st of October all of the 5 per cent, bonds outstanding at the beginning of this Administration, $194,100,500, had been retired, and in addition $1,298,240 of the 4 and 4½ per cent, bonds, or in all there has been applied to the retirement and purchase of bonds with premiums $209,924,518; and the total interest-bearing debt appearing in the September debt statement is under the one thousand million mark, the first time in a generation that it has not taken ten figures to express it, and this Gen. Harrison calls nursing the surplus. If all Republican secretaries had been as wise as was Secretary Windom, all our bonds would now be subject to call and the whole national debt could be extinguished in about eight years." Secretary Fairchild explained his theory as to conditions of supply and demand in buying bonds.

could be extinguished in about eight years."
Secretary Fairchild explained his theory as to conditions of supply and demand in buying bonds.
Fairchild then quoted from his last report to Congress in regard to the purchase of bonds in which he said: "Deposits in national bank depositories as a means of keeping the circulating medium available for business purposes are a resource at best very limited under the present laws, and ought not be used except in exceptional circumstances, such as have existed of late, and because there is no better thing to do." In reference to this he said: "Since preparing the foregoing I have seen in the newspapers that Biaine has thought fit to try his well-known skill in deceiving the public regarding the question of deposits in the national banks. He says with money at 5 per cent, the deposit of $60,000,000 aver. That is not true. The profit to the banks could not exceed $400,000 on $80,000,000 Government deposits, with money at 5 per cent. He says he reads that Col. Brice has $1,000,000 of the surplus in his bank. Until within a week I did not know whether this was true, for any bank which applied at the proper time and offered security would have got a deposit of that amount. One million dollars was the maximum allowed any one bank. If it had been true, it was well, for the money was as safe as is the future and honor of the Democratic party in Col. Brice's hands. After the postponement of this meeting last Saturday I met Col. Brice for the first time, and asked him about this statement of Blaine. Col. Brice told me he owned. a majority of the stock of a bank in Ohio, but that the bank never had a Government dollar; that he also had some stock in the Chase National Bank of New York, of which, if 'politics are to be considered, it is proper to say that Cannon, the last Republican Comptroller of the Currency, is president, and that a majority of the creditors are Republicans. sent to reduce the revenue by increasing taxes on necessaries as proposed by the Senate Tariff Bill. This bill, he said, claimed a reduction of $85,000,000. Of this nearly $75,000,000 reduction is claimed on sugar, leaving only $8,000,000 on all other articles, of which nearly the whole amount is claimed to result, not from reduction, but from increase of duties. This increase, through being prohibitory, might reduce the revenue, but would not reduce the cost of articles consumed by the people. On the contrary, it would increase it. What is needed now is judicious, substantial reduction of the revenue, not by increase of taxation, but by reduction of taxation upon the necessaries of life and upon materials used in our industries.

a couple of boys in a deserted brick-yard at the corner of Thirty-third and Laurel street this afternoon. They found an old soap box and opened it. The dead and decom posed bodies of five babies, laid side by

A cursory examination revealed a seaming fracture of the skull in two cases, that these were the only marks of violence discovered. The bables had probably been dead for about 10 days. No officers have been assigned to work up the case, the reason given being that there are none to spare, the strike necessitating the temporary abandonment of all detective work. The police of the Thirty-fifth-street district are of the opinion that the bables came from a "baby farm" or lying-in hospital. None of these are known to exist in the vicinity, and it is believed that the soap-box was carried to the brick-yard from a distance with a pile of refuse, a considerable amount of which had been deposited there.

Mr, Hurd's Speech

Mr. Hurd is an able and eloquent man. He has long been recognized as the most popular expounder of that pecuhiar doctrine sometimes "loosely" referred to as free trade, but which, as referred to as free trade, but which, as its advocates now explain, means, strictly speaking, "revenue reform." It is true, indeed, that Mr. Hurd is an illustrious example of the adage that a prophet is not without houor except in his own Congressional district. The very speech in which Mr. Hurd so brilliantly demonstrates to the satisfaction of many thousands of his fellow "revenue reformers" that free wool was among the essential elements of this country's prosperity, proved conclusively to his constituents that another man would better represent them in Congress. Yet that fact need not deter Mr. Hurd from coming to Kentucky to instruct the faithful, and we merely mention it to show how people differ.

By Telegraph to the Times.

BERLIN, Oct. 13.—[Copyright, 1888, by the New York Associated Press.] Only a summary of Dr. Mackenzle's book is yet accessible to the public here, but enough is known of its contents to arouse savage in-dignation in official circles. Putting aside the medical dispute, the charges which Dr. Mackenzie levels at Prince Bismarck, of inciting the German doctors to entrap him into doubtful declarations as to the nature of the Emperor's disease, are felt to be a poisonous slander on the reputation of the Chancellor. The simultaneous appearance of a letter to Empress Victoria by Dr. Mackenzie, indicating his treatment, is held to prove a concerted action to blacken Prince Bismarck's character. Dr. Macken-zie's attack en Drs. Gerhard and Bergmann can be answered in the courts of law here or in England, and can be met also by the opinions of eminent European specialists, not German. But Prince Bismarck is powerless to deal with Dr. Mackenzie. He will, however, use every resource of his craft to render Empress Victoria powerless to do him further harm. The report circulated vesterday recarding the theft of a to do him further harm. The report circu-lated yesterday regarding the theft of a cipher code from the Emperor's room indi-cates that the Chancellor's game of sur-veillance over the ex-Empress, which ceased by order of Emperor William, after her sur-render of Frederick's papers, will be re-newed. Watch will be kept over her parti-sans and her movements, including her proposed visit to Windsor.

Meanwhile Bismarck is having a back Meanwhile Bismarck is having a bad time. He is suffering from a renewal of his attack of gout in serious forms, partly arising from worry. It is said that his condition, will probably oblige him to reure from public affairs within a few months.

The Progressionists overlook the fact well known in official circles that Emperor William's experience in Vienna and Rome has riveted him closer than ever to Bismarck, whose policy has made him feel helplessly dependent upon the guidance of the Chancellor.

Popular feeling certainty sides with Drs. Bergmann and Gerhardt against Dr. Mackenzie's aspirations. Yet the Progressionist papers select the most offensive passages for prominent comment.

The congress of naturalists in session at Cologne has already adopted a vote of censure of Dr. Mackenzie. Members of the various Berlin institutes, clinical, pathological and physiological, and everybody associated with the medical profession, condemn the English physician.

Women as Voters. [Phi/adelphia T.mes.] The Boston episode proves beyond dispute that women can be quite a partisan and unfair as men in the exercise of the citizen's duty. But it proves more. It shows that under ordinary circumstances the women who should vote, if women are to vote at all, are more prone than the same class of men to stay at home and leave the voting to some one else. Those who have stoutly maintained that woman suffrage would simply swell the number of voters without elevating their standard, either morally or intellectually, will point to the experience of Boston as an illustration of the soundness of their position.

what Southern Negroes Need[Philadelphia Press.]

A negro of Memphis, Tenn., who defended himself and family from the assailt of two white men by killing his assailants was discharged by the police judge before whom he was brought last Tuesday, on the ground that he had done perfectly right. The scene in court is described as "extraordinary."
and we can easily believe it, as the event itself is most extraordinary in that latitude. That a Tennessee court should recognize the right of a negro to defend himself when his assailants are white men is a new departure which speaks volumes for the courts and for the civilization of West Tennessee. When a like sense of justice is shown by the courts of Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas we will begin to have less of negro outrages. What the southern negroes need more than anything else is the recognition by the courts of their inalienable rights as freemen to defend their person and their property from unlawful attack, even to the point of taking the lives of their assailan ts.

Ignatius Donnelly.

[Minneapolis Tribune.]
The withdrawal of the Hon. Ignatius Donnelly from the canvass as the Labor candidate for Governor creates no surprise. Mr. Donnelly having received the Democratic nomination for Representative in Dakota county, and being sentative in Dakota county, and being sure of an almost unanimous election, prefers a sure success to a certain defeat. Mr. Donnelly knows that the so-called Labor party, as an independent political organization, has no possible show of success in the State; while he very much desires a seat in the Legislature so that be may follow his own wishes and make such a fight against organized capital as he can. His withdrawal from the gubernatorial canvass has no further significance than this: has no further significance than this: that he does want to run for the Legis-lature and he doesn't want to run for Governor.

Don Dickinson's Blunder.

Don Dickinson's Hunder.
[Detroit Tribune.]

Don Dickinson-has made himself the laughing stock of the whole country by his recent speech in Detroit, wherein he sought to array the West against New England. Gen. Harrison, in his little speech to the Michigan delegation day before yesterday, very happily alluded to Mr. Dickinson's bad break, remerking in effect that re-prefer New Process. alluded to Mr. Dickinson's bad break, remarking in effect that we prefer New England as a consumer of western produce than free trade with Old England. If Don Dickinson had hunted two straight weeks for a blunder he couldn't have found one more stupid or ridiculous than his idiotic attack on New England.

Gov. Hill's Letter. [New York Post]

We would respectfully suggest to the editor of the Sun that, as he has failed in getting "a letter" for Gov. Hill, he should now get one for himself. If a letter from the President would do Hill any good, it would certainly do our venerable contemporary a world of good, also. We know of nobody who needs a letter more. It is certainly worth trying for, and, we are sure if he would pass around a petition asking Mr. Cleveland to "indorse" him, or whatever it is that a letter does, thousands would sign it who would not sign for Hill. Besides, he must consider how it would spite Judas. Judas has no letter, and we are sure could not get one. could not get one.

The Sugar trust Ag inst the People.

Ist. Louis Globe-Democrat;

Mr. Havemever is the head of the sugar trust. We believe he is also a warm supporter of President Cleveland and a heavy subscriber to the Cleveland campaign fund. However, this latter fact is of no importance just now. Havemeyer's arbitrary action takes the sugar-trust question out of politics. The partisan predilections and affiliations of the gentlemen composing the "combine" must henceforth be left out of consideration. On this issue, if it has heretofore, to some extent, been Republican against Democrat, it is so no longer. It is now the sugar trust against the American people.

It is the Fighters Who Win.

It is the Fighters Who Win.

[New York Sun.]

In political, as in military battles, it is not the cranks but the fighters who win victories. The Democracy must depend for success on the serried infantry ranks of the 5,000,000 Democrats distributed throughout the Native Company of the service of the servic crats distributed throughout the Nation, and on the heavy artillery of populous centers, like New York, which roll up on election day such magnificent majorities to overwhelm the Republicans. But this result cannot be secured by bowing to the threats or hearkening to the menaces of the impotent but noisy Mugwumps.

to the sofa, where she could look out and see the birds and the flowers and the happy children as they passed on their way to school. There were times when this little girl felt very lonely, and longed to get out of doors again into the sunshine, and breath the fresh air as it blew from over the hills. But usually she was cheerful, and amused herself in many ways, and she had one of the kindest and best mamma's in the world.

One day an old lady came to see her who told her about a little boy whom she knew, and whom she said could never hope te be well again. His parents were not like those of the little girl, wealthy people, so the poor boy had not much to amuse him, though he was a brave boy and bore his sufferings most heroically. When she heard of him the little girl, whose name is Thisbe, was very sorry for him, and at once determined that she would send him some toys by the old lady, who was on her way to his home. So she did up a lovely jumping-jack which she had, and which had afforded him. With the reception of this letter the with the received a letter such as only a bright, wide-awake boy can write, thanking her for the gift and telling her how much pleasure it had afforded him. With the reception of this letter the much amusement. In a day or two she received a letter such as only a bright, wide-awake boy can write, thanking her for the gift and telling her how much pleasure it had afforded him.

With the reception of this letter the idea occurred to her that there might be many other boys and girls who were shut in sickrooms like herself, and this little how when the little boy, whom she might perhaps make happier by sending some gift to them or by writing them a let-

"Mamma," she asked, "do you suppose that there are any other little children like Bennie and me, who have to stay all the time indoors?"

"Yes, my dear," replied mamma, with a smile, "a great many of them."

"I have been thinking," said Thisbe, "if that is so we might have a society of 'Shut-ins,' and we could write to each other, and amuse-ourselves very much in that way. Don't you think it would be a nice dea, mamma?"

This idea of her hule daughter pleased the good mother very much, and she was glad to see 'Inishe so thoughtful for others who, like herself, were shut in from all the outdoor pleasures that boys and girls love so

Thisbe next heard of a poor old sailor who had been very badly hurt in saving a shipwrecked crew. He never could hope to be fiwell again; all the rest of his life must be passed in his room. So Thisbe wrote to him, and her letter went into his room like a bit of sunshine. He thought, there is a little girl over the way who has been so sorry for me that she has written me this beau-

Well, well, the world isn't so very bad after all. The letter made him feel so happy it really seemed to him as if he had never seen the sky so blue nor the sun shine so brightly.

Well, the next day Thisbe had two letters, one from the boy to whom she had sent the jumping-jack and one from the poor old sailor whose heart she had gladdened by her kindly words. "Ah, mamma, vou do not know how short the day has been," she said with a bappy smile as she finished reading her letters and the lamps were lighted in her room. I cannot tell you today how her little society grew, nor about all the gifts she received—gifts made by the hands of the "Shut-ins," but the story is full of interest.

This society of "Shut-ins" has grown very large, and all over the country you may find those who belong to it.

Now, I wender if there are not boys and girls here in Los Angeles who would like to join a "Shut-in Ten."

The King's Daughters would be very glad to have them come to their next reaction, if their next reaction, if their next reaction, if their next reaction, if their next reaction. glad to have them come to their next meeting, if their are any such, so that they may organize the Shut-in Tens here in Los Angeles. I am sure you would enjoy it very much. You could each of you write a letter to some person who is sick, or who is so old that they are shut in. Almost any boy, if he did not always feel like writing a letter, could whittle out some toy, or some pretty device that would delight the heart of some poor invalid boy of his own age. The girls could dress dolls or make pretty fancy articles as gifts for the sickroom. But hest of all would be the cheerful and happy letters that you might write, and very pleasant to you would be the letters which you would receive in return.

I am 9 years old, and am from the old country and just been here there menths and a half. This is a ter. Well, my name is Tommie Gulvier. I am 9 years old, and am from the old country and just been here three months and a half. This is a nice place. So is the old country. There is so much to see there. I have been the Los Angeles several times. I like the city very well. I liked that Little Boy Blue very much. The greatest thing of all was crossing the sea. Well, excuse bad writing. Yours truly,

P. S.—My father does not take this paper, but a neighbor gives it to me. I will write again soon.

And here my little Los Angeles friend writes me another very pleasant letter. But I wish to remind my little correspondents that when they write to the papers they must write only upon one side of the page. When they do otherwise I am obliged to copy their letters, which makes a good deal of unnecessary work. But here is this good letter:

OUR BOYS AND GIRLS.

A NEW SOCIETY FOR OUR BOYS AND GIRLS.

Two Very Pleasant Letters—Some Talk About the "Shut-ins"—The Old Sarlor's Surprise—The Little Boy and His Jumping-jack—Thisbe.

I want to tell you this week something about a beautiful organization which is for boys and girls alike, and which is called "The Shut-ins."

"What does that mean?" you ask. Let me explain.

Some time ago there was a little girl who had fallen from a tree which she had climbed in the bright summer time to gather its fruit. The fall injured her very badly, and her friends caried her into the house and laid her upon a bed in a large sunny chamber where she lay for many weeks, and the only change she had was in being carried from her bed to the sofa, where she could look out and see the birds and the flowers and the happy children as they passed on their way to school. There were times whom this little read for the govening and help in two choruses. That is all I will have too the tongets and the pappy. We are to have an entertainment in the Fortstreet Methodist Church next Friday night. I am to be the chairman of the evening and help in two choruses.

And here is just one more letter for our column—all that I have received this week.

St. Louis, Sept. 30, 1888.

Dear Mrs. Otis: I have read so many letters from the little folks in the Mirror. I thought I would write one too. My grandma takes the Mirror. I am 9 years old, and in the third reader. I have two sisters and three brothers. I was born in St. Louis, and I expect to live there all my life. I guess I will close now. I think my letter long enough for the first one. But I hope it will not be the last one. I live 1450 Wright street. Hoping to see this letter in the Mirror. I remain yours truly.

yours truly, FLORA KURTZEBORN. We shall hope to hear again from our little friend.

How Thurman Loves the Negro. Howa State Register.

Mr. Thurman must wish by this time that his speech to the negroes who vis-ited him the other nay had never been spoken. He challenged investigation of his record, and the challenge has been taken up, and has given him more than he bargained for. It is but char-itable to assume that the old man's memory is not trusty, for if he had remembered well the past how could he have made the statements he did, asserting that he had always been the friend of the negro, and honored him, and demanded that he be treated as a citizen, etc., etc. Here is a gem or two, which possibly Mr. Thurman had forgotten:
